Comments and Recommendations
It was interesting for the staff to see the implementation of teaching the master students and the cooperation of the teachings of staff with the Austrian army; the mission was to introduce how they create a peacemaking mission in the middle of conflict. This is a follow-up program for the previous workshops made by Innsbruck in June.
Major obstacles encountered during the preparation for the event
To bad circumstances, the University of Petra participants could not attend; therefore, decisions were made without them. It made the situation challenging to take decisions as a group because one group held all the other groups.
The University of Petra illustrated weak performance at the workshop for not attending and they could not present their work.
